PROGRAM GOALS
Students earning a Professional MS in International Agribusiness (PMIA) are provided with the necessary education and training to obtain a high profile marketing and management position in the Agribusiness sector. Our graduates find fulfilling careers working with international clientele in the dynamic and rapidly growing international Food & Agribusiness Industry.

OUR STUDENTS
• Students in our program are motivated to establish their career in international agribusiness.
• Many are multilingual and have international exposure.
• Students are trained with the same rigorous core requirements as the agricultural economics department’s existing, reputable Master's Degree programs.
• They complete hands-on projects and have interactions with U.S. based agribusiness firms.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS
• Non-Thesis Degree
• Finish in 12-15 months
• Work with more than 40 faculty members
• Experience summer internships & study-abroad opportunities
• Access to Purdue scholarship and part-time employment opportunities, except for tuition remission

IS YOUR BUSINESS HIRING?
We collaborate with companies looking to hire students with international food and agribusiness experience.

Opportunities may include:
• Informing us about summer internships available at your company.
• Providing students with scholarships.
• Submitting a real case study from your firm. Then working with a student and his/her faculty advisor to develop a report.
• Presenting student(s) with a targeted hiring strategy that includes a mutual commitment.
  • Require student(s) to commit to a certain years of service.
  • Require student(s) to take particular courses or receive specific training that meets your company's needs.
• Giving a lecture to our class as a guest speaker. Allowing promotion of your firm and provides for direct contact with students.
