

Congratulations to John Cavaletto for winning the Outstanding Service to Students in the College of Agriculture Award. John directly impacts the learning of hundreds of students through his detailed attention to the relevance and engaging nature of lab activities offered to students. Through his development of lab activities, coordination of teaching assistants, help with Purdue MANNRS, and genuine connection with the students, many individuals benefit from his infectious excitement for plant and microbial biology. John is very enthusiastic about his work and always goes one-step further to make sure students have what they need for labs. He really cares about his students' education and creates the best possible lab experience.
