TOUR INNOVATIVE FARMS THIS SUMMER

Join us for the 91st annual Purdue University Farm Management Tour as we tour two top notch Indiana farms in Randolph County. The 2024 Master Farmers will be honored in conjunction with the tour at Willow's Edge in Winchester. All are welcome. Tour & reception are FREE. Note all times listed are eastern daylight.

CLEMENTS-MILLER FARM | 9:00 A.M.

Start the day by visiting the Clements-Miller farm and learn how Rex & Cheryl Clements have structured the transition of their corn and soybean operation to their daughter Jill & son-in-law Wade Miller, (4698 E 600 S, Lynn). At this tour stop you'll also hear about how Rex & Wade used precision ag technology to identify the need for drainage improvements leading to the purchase of a self-propelled tile plow. They've learned a lot about tile drainage and you will too at this tour stop.

UNION GO DAIRY | 1:00 P.M.

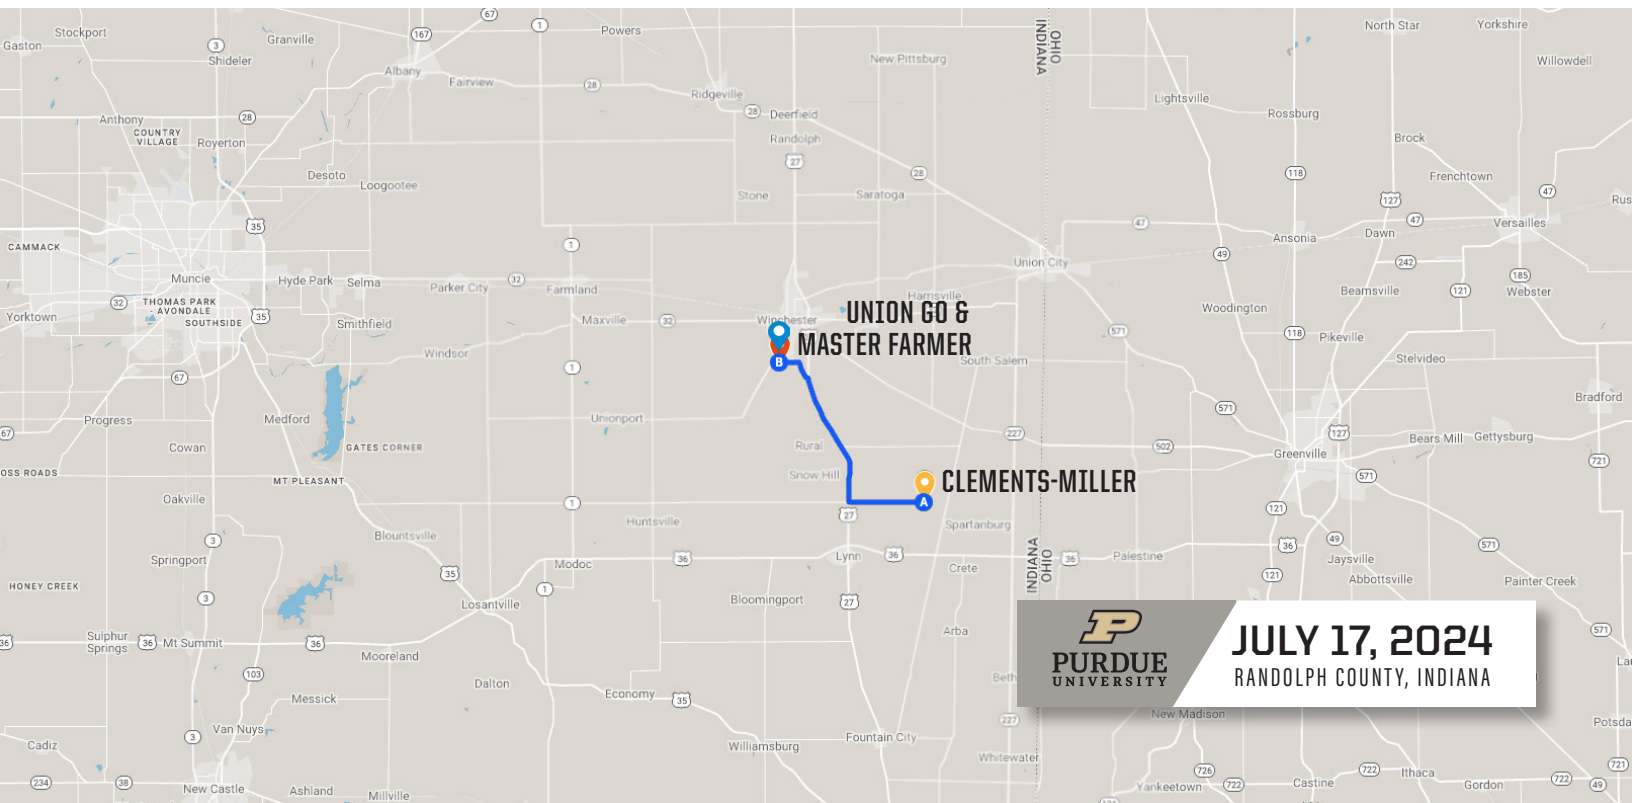

Next join the Goltstein family from Union Go Dairy at Willow's Edge event center (627 W 100 S, Winchester) and learn how they've successfully integrated three next generation family members into the farm business. You'll also learn about how working side-by-side with Dannon has helped them become more efficient and improved their farm's risk management.

Please note due to concerns regarding bird flu and our commitment to maintain biosecurity at the dairy, this tour stop is located at Willow's Edge.

MASTER FARMER RECEPTION & PANEL DISCUSSION | 4:00 P.M.

A long-standing tradition in Indiana which honors individuals who have made major contributions to Indiana agriculture and demonstrated success in farming efficiency, stewardship of natural resources and community service. The presentation of awards will be followed by a panel discussion with the honorees at Willow's Edge (627 W 100 S, Winchester). Pre-registration is required to attend the Master Farmer Reception & Panel Discussion, no day-of tickets are available for this event.
