

Purdue Extension Community Development is hiring a Community Resilience Specialist to focus on applied research, education, and project management with community programs related to environmental planning, environmental and social justice, community resilience, and renewable energy sitting. We are seeking a Master's-level professional with at least three years of experience in Applied Economics, Planning, Public Affairs, Sociology, Sustainability, or related disciplines. To learn more and apply, visit <https://careers.purdue.edu/job-invite/31366/>