Indianapolis Museum of Art

We are currently accepting applications for the spring 2016 semester. Applications are due by October 23, 2015.

For additional information about the application process, please visit our web site at http://www.imamuseum.org/about/working-at-ima/internships.

The IMA offers two categories of internship programs:

The IMA Scholar Program
The IMA Scholar Program is offered each year to a small number of graduate internship applicants. This internship is generally granted to candidates who are in active pursuit of future careers in fields of curatorial research, historic preservation, or conservation. Applicants pursuing careers in other aspects of art museum practice may be considered for the IMA Scholar Program dependent on the strength of their qualifications and the availability of projects related to current IMA initiatives.

The IMA Intern Program

The IMA Intern Program is open to juniors, seniors, recent graduates, or graduate students who work on projects with their assigned mentor and department staff. Summer interns participate in regularly scheduled programming designed to provide a broader understanding of museum operations and practices.

IMA Internships are offered in the following departments with availability depending on departmental requests. For detailed department descriptions, see attached. The department descriptions are also located on the internship page of the IMA’s website.

- Academic Engagement
- Collections Support
- Conservation
- Conservation Science
- Curatorial
- Design
- Development
- Environmental/Historic Preservation
- IMA Lab
- Interpretation, Media and Evaluation
- Legal Affairs
- Libraries and Archives
- Marketing and External Affairs
- Photography
- Public Programs
Registration
Volunteer Services