Lunch & Learn

It's great to learn to speak a whole new language, but it can take a lot of time and effort before you can converse easily. An easy approach to understanding non-English speakers is to know the physical cues – especially considering 93% of communication is non-verbal.

Learn some do's and don'ts to stay out of sticky situations and brush up on your body language with this webinar to some of the most common gestures from around the world.
