$2,000 in Scholarships Available to Ag Students through Jenner Ag

Harristown, Ill., February 17, 2016 - Illinois and Indiana high school and college students pursuing an agriculture degree have the opportunity to further their education with three scholarships from Jenner Ag.

"The future of agriculture depends on promoting early growth in the industry," says Steve Jones, president of Jenner Ag. "That starts with helping ag students set their roots, and we're proud to play a small part in that."

For the 6th year, Jenner Ag is offering aspiring ag students in Illinois and Indiana the opportunity to earn support toward their ag degrees.

Two $1,000 scholarships are available. Ag students from their high school senior year up to their college junior year can apply for assistance furthering their education in an agriculture degree program.

Applications are available online at www.jennerag.com or through any Jenner employee and must be postmarked by June 30, 2016. Scholarships will be awarded by August 2016.
