Interested in local foods? Want to be a part of a sustainable family-farm? Join Becker Farms for an internship in 2016.

About Us: Becker Farms was established in 2007 by Kyle and Emily Becker and is located in Mooreland, Indiana (one hour east of Indianapolis). Our farm consists of 130 acres of pasture and woods. We specialize in the production of grass-pastured beef, pork, chicken, turkey, lamb, goat, duck, eggs, and produce. We sell our products year-round at several weekly farmers markets throughout east-central Indiana.

As Purdue University College of Agriculture alumni (Emily: B.S. in Food Science and Kyle: B.S. in Animal Sciences and DVM, Food Animal Medicine), we recognize the importance of offering experiential learning opportunities for students and others interested in sustainable agriculture. We are looking for candidates that have experience and interest in the following two roles on our farm: 1) animal husbandry and 2) sales, marketing, and distribution.

Ideal applicants should be comfortable working in a rural setting, able to handle the physicality of farm labor, able to work independently, and have good customer-relations skills. Housing and the majority of meals will be provided. Hours and start date are flexible, based on the availability of the candidate. Pay commensurate with skills/experience.

Positions are available for this Summer and Fall. Interested applicants are welcome to contact us with any questions and send their resume and cover letter (indicating Summer or Fall availability) to:
