Indiana Dressage Society Youth Dressage Camp
- Hendricks County 4-H Fairgrounds, Danville, IN

The Indiana Dressage Society, a horse-related organization that is a GMO of the United States Dressage Federation. This year, IDS is putting on a 5-day dressage camp for youth, aged 12-18, at the Hendricks County Fairgrounds the week of June 27th-July 1st. We are looking for volunteer camp counselors for this camp. With extensive equine background, I immediately thought that this may be a potential opportunity for Animal/Equine science college students as both an experience and a resume-builder.

Job: Volunteer camp counselor (unpaid)

Job description: On sight supervision of campers, ages 12-18, from Monday, June 27 through Friday, July 1 2016. Counselors will be responsible for supervising and assisting campers in all camp activities which will include caring for their horses, tacking up and riding, and various un-mounted activities including crafts, lectures/demonstrations, meals and sleeping overnight. Counselors will be expected to be available around the clock and will sleep with the campers. All meals will be provided. Counselors will be required to bring their own cot, sleeping bag/bed roll, toiletries, etc. Counselors should be familiar with and comfortable around horses (as well as kids).

Benefits: The focus of this camp is dressage. Counselors will have the opportunity to learn about the classical, correct training of the horse by watching the daily lessons of the campers and participating in all other related camp activities, lectures and demonstrations.
