"Blue Streets: A History of American Homelossness."

Mr. Sawyer will explain the path to civil rights and how it was, is and will be. He brings in the facts about the movement and how all races, ethnicities, social economics will play a role. Moreover, the work presented will refer to Martin Luther King Jr legacy re: the Poor Peoples' Campaign and Resurrection City.

David Sawyer is a lecturer, writer, community and event organizer, and performing artist. He travels throughout the U.S. to advance the cause of social harmony through the understanding of culture. His lectures serve as a motivation to take into deeper consideration social change. He uses humor and cogent analysis on current issues, worldwide events, and the impact on the community. He is able to show emphasis on the role that music plays in historic movements for social change through singing and playing the guitar. Currently, he is working on a book, Modern Change.
