Adriela Fernandez participated at the 2016 Brazilian Association for International Education - FAUBAI – 2016 Conference on Social Responsibility in the Internationalization of Higher Education, that took place in Fortaleza, Brazil, April 16-20, with the paper entitled Building an Interdisciplinary, Technology Intensive, and Collaborative Model For International Education, which she co-authored with Renee Valentina Lopez, of ITESM, Mexico. 150 universities from the Americas and Europe were represented at that event.

Adriela Fernandez participated in the Salvador phase of the 2016 EducationUSA, Brazil, meeting students, parents and college counselors at the Pan American School of Bahia (PASB). This is a private, co-educational pre-school through 12th grade institution offering a college preparatory program based upon American curriculum standards and teaching methods. The primary language of instruction is English. PASB awards the American High School Diploma, the Brazilian Diploma, and the International Baccalaureate Diploma.
